We help clients through the complexities of Capital Enhancement Opportunities involving common as well as alternative passive/non-passive investment mechanisms. Florida has long been a point of entry for Caribbean and Latin American investment in the United States. Investment has ranged from passively safeguarding “flight capital,” to actively establishing a presence in commerce or real estate; to seeking access to closely guarded investment opportunities in U.S. capital markets for financing needs at home; in structuring and operating all types of investments.

The strength of U.S. markets attracts investments from around the world. We play a crucial role in structuring local and international investments. Our group can help in establishing offshore corporations and domestic and foreign trusts, and in structuring the best use of these vehicles within the requirements of U.S. and foreign law.

The growth of Florida’s population and its cultural diversity has enhanced its status as a point of entry into U.S. commerce. We assist our clients with all aspects of establishing a U.S. presence. We have been closely involved in negotiating with local and foreign partners and financial institutions. We work with structure investment vehicles that maximize profits to foreign and domestic investors. We also deal with complex international securities such as Global Bonds, International Municipal Bonds, and we assist in establishing cooperative relationships with government authorities
